(Text 1)

M: Honey, what do you think of this kind of wooden chair for our restaurant?

W: It looks great, but it's kind of small, just like the chairs in my company. How about this green one here?

(Text 2)

W: Let's get something to drink and then go and see the elephants.

M: But the dolphin show starts in two minutes. I really want to see that. We can get a cup of tea afterwards.

(Text 3)

W: Can you hand me four eggs, please?

M: Sure. Do you need anything else?

W: Yes, please. I need some sugar and chocolate. Now everything is ready for my super chocolate pie.

(Text 4)

M: You look upset. What's wrong?

W: I'll never take my car downtown again.

M: Did you get another ticket or couldn't you find a parking space?

W: I wish it were just that. My car was broken into. I lost my purse.

(Text 5)

W: Excuse me, sir. Could you tell me how I can get to the city church?

M: Are you driving or taking public transportation?

W: Well, I spent the whole day yesterday driving to see all the sights, so today I think I'd like to go by bus.

M: Why don't you walk with me? I'm heading in the direction where you can catch the first bus you'll need to take.

(Text 6)

M: Have you ever been to a school reunion?

W: Uh, yeah. Why do you ask? Are you going to one?

M: I'm organizing one for this summer. I have to make a reservation for a party room at a hotel. Do you know any good places?

W: Why don't you try the Omni Hotel? It often caters banquets or birthday parties, but more important, my brother works there.

M: Could I ask you to check with him about the party rooms?

W: Sure. I can do that. Maybe he can offer you a discount.

M: Thanks. So what did you think about your school reunion? Was it fun?

W: I didn't really enjoy mine. I'm not very good at making small talk, but it was nice to see old friends.

(Text 7)

W: Hey, Jake. Are you ready for your trip?

M: Well, not really. I still have to buy some clothes. It's winter there.

W: Is it very cold there?

M: Well, the weather doesn't get too cold, but it often snows in the mountains, so I'm going to buy a couple of warm sweaters, a jacket, and a hat. I don't have room in my suitcase to pack a coat, so I'm going to wait until I get there and buy it when I really need it.

W: Do you need any clothing for formal occasions?

M: Well, I guess so. You never know when you might need something for a party or a nice date, so I'll probably take a suit.

W: Have you forgotten Alice's wedding?

M: Oh, right! Then I'll definitely take a suit.

(Text 8)

W: Hey, Dean, what kinds of things do you like to do in your free time?

M: Hey, Ann. I like basketball — both playing and watching.

W: Which team do you cheer for? New York?

M: Not since I moved away from there last year. I cheer for Los Angeles now. Last week, they came first in a match with the team from Seattle. It was really a tough game.

W: I didn't know that. I thought you were a football fan.

M: I am! I also enjoy gardening, and I really like painting. Activities like that are great for relieving stress. How about you?

W: Well, once a month I go bungee jumping with some friends.

M: You do? That sounds dangerous! Aren't you scared?

W: Not at all. It's fascinating. You should try it sometime.

M: Wow! It sounds awesome. Do you think I could?

W: Sure! How about this Saturday morning?

M: Oh, I can't then. I have an appointment from 9:00 to 12:00.

W: No problem. We can go in the afternoon, let's say, at 2:00 pm.

M: Sounds great!

(Text 9)

M: Good morning.

W: Good morning. Um ... I'm looking for a place to rent near the university. There are three of us looking together. We thought we might share if we could find something suitable.

M: So something near the university?

W: Yes, if that's at all possible. We are all students so it'd be good if we could find something within walking distance.

M: Are you in your first year?

W: No, I've been here a year already.

M: So let me have a look at what we've got ... Well, there's a two-bedroom house in Newtown which is quite cheap.

W: Well, I like that it's very near the university, but if we all want our own rooms, it isn't really big enough.

M: Too small. Give that one a miss?

W: Yeah, I think so. Got anything else?

M: What about this? Three-bedroom flat, close to the university ... It's $400 a week.

W: Oh, that's too expensive.

M: Well, here's a three-bedroom house with a small garden. It's near the airport, miles from the university, but it's reasonably priced at $240 a week. Why don't you go and have a look?

W: All right.

M: And now here's news about our latest competition. You won't believe what we're offering you this month. As this is International Year of the Family, you have the chance to win a wonderful family holiday in Jamaica. All you have to do is take a photograph which shows family life. It could be the children with their parents or their grandparents or whatever you wish. You don't have to have taken it on holiday of course. Now, the lucky winner has the chance to spend two weeks at Silver Sands Bay in Jamaica. Two weeks of beautiful beaches, sunshine, plenty for everyone to do. There are water sports and children's entertainment, and everything is included. That's everything — food as well. Now, the second prize is a camera worth £500, and that's certainly worth having for any holidays coming up. So send us your photograph — in color or black and white — by 31 August — that's the closing date for entries ... and listen to this program to hear if you've won or not. We will be announcing the winners on 15 September. Now, you must be over 18 years of age. I'm sorry, kids, but you'll have a chance next month in your super sports competition! Send your lucky photograph to us at DCM Radio, 25 East Hill, Brighton, Sussex. And don't forget to write your name and address on the back of the photo. We can't return any photos, I'm afraid, so make sure you've got another copy if it's your favorite.

第一节

One possible version:

Dear John,

How are you doing recently? I'm writing the email to tell you that I wish to work in an American restaurant as a temporary employee during the vacation. However, there will be an interview next week, which makes me worried. I am wondering if you could tell me some interview skills. As you know, my spoken English is not so fluent. It makes my communication with native speakers somewhat difficult. I think the problem is that I am always flooded with a sense of nervousness when talking with strangers. So I'm extremely afraid to fail this time. I hope to pass the interview successfully and there may be an opportunity to make more friends and know more about the local culture.

I'm looking forward to your early reply!

Yours,

Li Hua

第二节

One possible version:

"We must first break the window first, for the driver hasn't come out," Hans said. So he turned to Martin and yelled, "Give me a big rock!" He made for the truck with care. Having got to the truck, with the rock, he hit the window hard over and over again until he succeeded. Then Hans kicked in the remaining pieces of glass. Relieved, Sam reached out for Hans' hand and he was rescued. The two men escaped from the spot and returned to safety. Sam said he couldn't thank Hans and his nephew enough.

At that time Sam's mother thought her son should have reached home. She called up her son. Hearing the mobile phone in his jacket pocket ringing, with trembling hands, Sam took out the phone and pressed it to his ear. His mother's anxious voice came over the phone, "Are you home yet? Everything's good?" Tears welled up in his eyes at the familiar sound of concern. Sam choked up as he explained the accident to his mom and comforted her. Hanging up the phone, he turned to Hans and Martin and sincerely thanked both of them again. Cold as the rain was, great warmth filled his heart like never before.
